

We support our clients in product development by acting as the gateway between the product design and the production process. We understand how modern production processes work and our prototyping and model making capabilities will optimise product development.

We are committed to continually improve the effectiveness of our system by:

- Meeting customer, statutory and regulatory requirements;
- Setting objectives and monitoring performance;
- Providing adequate resources;
- Responding to any adverse trends.

We achieve this using our Management System that conforms to ISO9001:2008, internal audits, Management Reviews and by communication of our philosophy to all employees through induction training and by being available on site.

Justin Pringle
MD